Jewellery designer Andrea Singarella, from America, makes beautiful jewellery. "The love of jewellery is in my genes. As a child I spent hours looking through my grandma's different jewellery boxes. She had lots of jewellery, scarves and bags from the 40s and 50s."

Andrea makes new jewellery with a vintage look

Andrea designs and makes all the jewellery herself. Her pieces are romantic and I can see that she puts a lot of love into her creations.

Andrea: "I have always dreamed of having my own shop to sell handmade jewellery. I'm so happy I was able to achieve my dream. I create beauty every day and that brings me a lot of joy. Because happiness is in the small things."

Andrea loves religious objects and
precious stones.
She uses these to
make her jewellery,
with a great sense
of style.
